

cient rain, as against 42 per cent in the previous week. According to a Crisil Research report last week, northwest India recorded a high deficit of 55 per cent between June 23 and July 12. Between June 23 and July 12, there was a 58 per cent deficit in rains over Rajasthan and the shortfall in central India was 39 per cent, with Gujarat accounting for 67 per cent of the shortage.

The uneven showers and the long gap between them impacted sowing of kharif crops and cast a huge shadow on their final yields, particularly for the early sown varieties. However, as things improve, experts and analysts believe the progress of the southwest monsoon would be keenly watched over the next few weeks to determine the final output.

Sowing gathers steam

After a lull for most of July, sowing of kharif crops picked up during the week ended

July 23. According to latest data, crops have been sown in around 72.13 million hectares, which is 8.90 per cent less than the same period last year.

Sowing of kharif crops was 11.5 per cent lower than the same period last year (till July 16), continuing a slide from 10.45 per cent during the previous week (till July 9).

Sowing is down 3.16 per cent of the normal area (average of the last five years) till July 23.

Among major crops, as on July 23, acreage of urad is almost 23 per cent lower than last year, while that of moong is about 18 per cent lower, and bajra acreage is down 29.16 per cent. The area for groundnut cultivation is 13.16 percent lower (as of July 23) than last year, while soybean acreage is 8.74 per cent less. Cotton has been planted in 7.71 per cent less area till July 23 as compared to the same period last year.

Though still less than last year, the area covered has shown a far better improve-

The main reason for this is a spike in global markets as India imports more than 60 per cent of its annual requirement of edible oils.

In the case of pulses, too, data shows that prices had risen sharply in April and May. After a series of measures were announced, prices have cooled down but are still 6-15 per cent higher than those of last year for most major pulses, including arhar, urad and masoor.

Traders and market watchers said that with international markets of pulses and edible oils expected to rule due to rising demand and low output in major producers, inflation in both commodities could be firm at least until December after which the new domestic kharif crop will hit the market.

The current bout of rains will thus act as a much needed booster, but the remainder of the season would be watched keenly because any extended break now could have an adverse impact on the final output.
